Does Advertising Pay?

There is no instance on record of a well established system of judicious advertising failing of success.

My success is owing to my liberality in advertising.—Advertiser.

Advertising has furnished us with a competence.—Amos Lawrence.

I advertised my productions and made money.—Nathaniel Langford.

Constant and persistent advertising is a sure pledge to wealth.—Samuel O'Brien.

He who invests one dollar in advertising should expect one dollar in business.—A. T. Stewart.

Without the aid of advertising, I could have done nothing in my speculations. I have the most complete faith in printer's ink. Advertising is the royal road to business.—Barnum.

The following curious advertisement lately appeared in a paper: "To be sold by private contract, a monkey, a parrot, two spaniels and a tortoiseback hat—the property of a lady just married who has no further occasion for the same."

A movement is on foot to erect in Central Park, New York, an equine statue similar to the world renowned Big Ben statue. It is proposed that the work should be carried out under the direction of Mr. W. Saville Kent, an English naturalist who was for some time in charge of the Brighton establishment.

A Buck.—Many persons—besides school boys and college students—use the phrase. He is a buck, without the least idea that it is supposed to be of classic origin. It is said that King Agamemnon, being asked by an ambassador from Sparta why they had not sent for Agamemnon, replied: "We have," pointing to the walls of Sparta; "every man you see is a buck."

A Curiosity.—A schooner which arrived at this port yesterday reports that, after the late gale in Loughsbury Harbor, when commencing to weigh the anchor, she became entangled in something, and with much difficulty the anchor was weighed. When brought to the surface, the obstruction was found to be a small anchor which had attached itself to the anchor of the schooner. It is about twelve feet in length and is covered with barnacles. It is supposed to have been lost at the siege of Loughsbury, in the war between the French and English, which happened over a hundred years ago.—Edinburgh Paper.

North Hastings St

The annual Fair and Cattle Show of North Hastings Agricultural Society, held at Luke's Hotel, Huntingdon, on Thursday, the 9th inst. The show was covered with the most delightful weather the air being balmy as the days of June whilst the gorgeous autumn tints of the forest added greatly to the beauty of the scene. The attendance numbered probably from 1,800 to 2,000 people, the majority of whom were residents of Huntingdon; visitors from Bellville and the southern part of the County being well sided.

The show, from various causes, failed to come up to the expectations of the

The first and chief of these causes is that there are three Township Societies in the Riding, which absorb $420 of the $700 granted by Government to the division. This leaves but $280 for the County Society to offer in prizes, and consequently curtails the premium list to a very to any extent. Then the buildings are to be used for the purposes of the exhibition are nearly unprofitable for the purpose, and no present circumstances to procure be attempted. We mention this solely not for the purpose of finding fault with the managers or directors of the society, who are all able, energetic men, especially their worthy Secretary, James J. Ryan—but simply to show the difficulties under which they labor. It has been suggested that the Township should be discontinued, thus affording funds for getting up of a good County Show, which it is contended would be of far greater benefit to the farmers of the great local Shows. It has also been urged that the Show be made permanent.

We will now proceed to take a glance at the various departments. First come the

which were exhibited in a large field on the west side of the road. Messrs. J. H. Hagarty, Jr., J. G. Chapman, John

Wm. Murray were the only exhibitors of blood cattle, and amongst their lots were some very fine animals. To these groups must be awarded great credit for efforts to introduce a superior class of cattle. Grades were tolerably numerous, and some good specimens of the ordinary cattle of the country were shown.

HORSES.

The show of horses was good, and the competition for several of the prizes very keen. Messrs. E. Horton, Hamilton and John McCaw succeeded in carrying off the largest number of prizes.

SHEEP.

There were but few prizes offered, and these all in the long-wooled class.

department was well filled, and was certainly the best in the exhibition, some very superior animals being exhibited.

THE

were conspicuous by their absence, not a solitary porker being shown, though it is safe to presume that within a very few miles of the show ground there are thousands of animals of this class worth prizes, of which, however, but small numbers are offered, namely first, second and third prizes, a breeding sow and two spring pigs.

DOMESTIC MANUFACTURES

were not very fully represented, and the poor light which prevailed in the department in which they were exhibited, tended to diminish their interest.

merits the display less attractive than the reader deserved, these being so really meritorious articles shown. Mr. Ryan was tolerably successful in department, as also were Messrs. W. Gray, S. Keithson, Jas. Tulloch, S. Thompson, W. Hersey and others.

DAIRY PRODUCE.

Some excellent butter was shown, some very fine factory cheese, for which prizes alone were prizes offered. The West Huntingdon Factory carried off first prize, and the Ivanhoe Factory second, these being the only factories represented.

FARMING PRODUCE.

This to an expert in judging of Qualities of grain, was doubtless the most attractive department, as it was the largest. The season has been asserted to be bad one; but, bad or good as it may have been, the judges gave it as their opinion, that they seldom or never saw better grain than was here shown. In all the grain shown was of prime quality.

ROOTS AND FIELD CROPS.

This class was not so well filled as the preceding, and the articles did not attract as being of more than average merit.

GARDEN PRODUCE

As a much better department, and containing some articles which would have secured a prize almost anywhere. Most

A large number of implements were shown. Messrs K. Ashley, son, and Priestall, manufacturers, showed lamb shears of excellent make, with which they carried off prizes. Messrs. G. &

Gathering of Old Folks.

Ode written on the occasion of a reunion of the old pupils of Macauley at Forestville, N. Y., in September, 1873, which 5,000 people were in attendance.]

BY MRS. C. D. ANGELL.

Fervid summer heats are over—Dronthea, consuming blades and clover—
 All the land its thirst is slaking
 And to beauty now awaking.

Gathered is the harvest golden Into garner new and old; and
 And the hay-mow's fragrant treasure
 Heaped and pressed in bounteous measure.

Luscious fruits in rare profusion
 Gleam in careful housewife's closets—
 All the summer sunbeam's dushes

Restful days of rare September !
Glowing like some ruddy amber
That on heartstones prostrate lying Warms and brightens in its dyeing.

Restful days ! whose sunny gladness
Takes no tinge of coming sadness,
Days of all the year most fitting
For this welcome, and the greeting.

How shall we, our homage render?
How pay tribute true, and tender Unto those, who, long abiding Slow release, are gently chiding?

Unto those who toy and fling
With careless, patient finger
Over tasks of homely beauty Wrought by them in tireless duty?

Long they bore life's heat and burden
With no mood of praise or gaudion,
But, their souls in hope possessing,
Waited for the promised blessing.

While with faithful hands and willing
Their allotted task fulfilling,
Fighting in allegiance ever
To their stern and proud endeavor;

Gardens from the deserts making ;
Wild morasses and swamps reclaiming ;
All the tangled willowwood taming ;

Rank and stubborn growths subduing :
Wells of living water hewing—
By no pain or sickness daunted—
By no fruitless labours hasted—

By no false ambitions goaded, Nor by festered cares corroded—Strong in purpose—pure in living—
All of self to duty giving—

Men of grand, heroic daring,
Shrinking from no burden-bearing,
By their self-denial shining
All our feeble, shallow aiming ;

By their rigid, stern unswerving,

By their calm and patient doing
High resolves in us renewing.

Lo! they stand before the portal
Of the golden gate immortal;
And the fruits of toil and reaping
They bequeath unto our keeping.

Goodly acres, broad and teeming—
Vineyards on the hill sides gleaming—
Greasy uplands, gently swelling—
Crowned by many a peaceful dwelling—

Tasteful homes, and schools and churches
Streamlets, spanned by graceful arches—
Maple-shadowed drives, ecstasies
Towna in forest shade reposing—

Railroads, linking lake and ocean—
Harnessed lightning's fiery motion

Bear our words and bring our treasure.
 Heritors of untold treasure
 Without price, or stint, or measure,
 Let us show by worthy living
 How we prize the princely giving.

Let this day and place be holy ;
 Come with reverent hearts and lowly ;
 Bid no thought unworthy enter
 Where our love and duty centre.

Here shall children's happy faces,
 Maiden's sweet and tender graces ;
 Manhood's strength and youth's ambition
 All unite in loving mission—

All unite to crown with glory
 Heads with many waters hoary,
 Counting all our labor, leisure,

All, with outstretched arms receive you,
And a thousand welcomes give you;
To our hearts and homes we take you,
Fond, our honored guests to make you.

With us—aye; but yet, not of us,
Far removed, beyond, above us;
On the top of Pisgah standing
All the "promised land" commanding.

Wrapped in beatific vision
Of those deathless souls Elysian,
Waiting for the summons thither,
What should tempt your footsteps hither?

Ah! in guise of strangers hidden,
Angels, to our feet are bidden;
Eternating them beside us
Unaware, they lead and guide us.

APPLE JELLY.—Take golden, pippin pare, core and quarter them, and boil water enough to cover them until quite soft; then turn into a flannel jelly bag and let the juice run out without squeezing the jelly bag; the jelly bag is made like an essence funnel, with a short nose and sewed up in one seam; take a square of flannel and double over to two points (lapping in the middle, and you will see how it is done); tie this bag by fastening tapes each side of it, to chairs, and let the juice run out one pound of white sugar and boil for twenty minutes; then turn into jelly bag

Newspaper work is in one sense ephemeral, yet the general impression which leaves on its habitual readers is permanently influential for good or for evil. Our work is neither feeble nor futile; and while in the world of Schiller, we "cast silently into everlasting time," let us do so in the earnest hope that its good effect outweighs admitted imperfection. We may be on the side of truth and honesty of justice and purity.

The Pope and Emperor William.

Interesting Correspondence.

BERLIN, Oct. 14.—The correspondence between the Pope and Emperor William is officially published. The Pope writes on August

10th, that the Emperor of the Russian Empire is at the destruction of Catholicism, that he is unable to discover the reason for such severity. He is informed and believing that the Emperor is adverse to the increase or continuance of this harsh policy, he points out that measures injurious to the Christian religion only tend to undermine the Throne. He speaks freely, as a truthfulness to all is his duty, and all his efforts are to secure the peace of the world. He is certain that he will be able to convince the Emperor that the Pope's policy is the only one that will lead to the peace of the

There is no doubt, for I remember having heard the late Warden repeat many times that the County Stock was one of the principal grounds of credit on which the Government Bonus, which will stand high in public estimation, is based. The facts become known. I have been trying to find out what our representatives from Thirlow think about this, but I don't seem shaky. Clapp says "I know nothing, but I don't vote against anything that the people wanted." High moral ground, Mr. Editor. But let me say to Clapp that the people of Thirlow do not excuse any such shabby conduct. I am sure that we have not the like of J. J. Farley, Esq., in the County.

We never dressed a lobster. If the lobster is with a plain white chalice, its long-maybe it would, but perhaps, "Home-

No. 14

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

Stn.—In your Daily of the 16th inst., an article appears signed by one who calls himself an "Old Resident of Burlington," and headed, "Sale of Grand Junction Stock." Had the writer confided his words solely to facts and first posted himself well on the subject on which he wrote, it would have saved me the necessity of replying.

The writer has evidently been watching me get some pretence to have a flag at my elbow, and also to try to throw discredit on my positions as a public officer, or else to give me credit for more than I claim. I am that of controlling the County Councils for the plainly tries to leave the transactions

[illegible]

But an "Old Resident" says that he moved the resolution giving the Water Board power to do as he pleased with the Stock that is a gross misstatement, as it moves such resolutions, either in Committee or open Council, and if it was for the interest of the County or otherwise, the Water Council is responsible, the report being unanimously adopted.

Another statement made by the writer is that my only excuse for voting for the sale of the Stock was to save the small sum of $550. This statement is as false as the other, as I always do what I think is best for the County as a whole. What I was speaking on the subject was, the whole affair originated on account of the way in which the President managed business of the Company, by not calling all the private stockholders to pass their calls, as the County had done, a resolutions had been passed at two different meetings to make them do so; and had been a mistake to sell the Stock, has been, then the responsibility rests on the President, for had he not first brought forth by not putting the resolutions forward, passed by the Board of Directors, am satisfied the Stock would not have sold; besides, when the President Vice-President were advising the Tax Assessors to assume the $50,000, they evidently tried to lead them to believe that the money would never be asked for, as it was principally to give them a position or standing, but that it might possibly be two or three calls.

to start the enterprise, but that would all, and now the County has paid up calls, whereas many of the private stock holders, as I am informed by the Warden, have paid nothing. Another fact is the Warden offered the Contractor, Brooks, the Stock on the same terms he would, but he refused buying, and that he thought he had already purchased enough private stock to control the road, and as the County was good for it, he preferred the money.
And when asked why the private stock holders were not made to pay their calls, he replied by saying they intended to do them all out.

I will here inform an "Old Reader" that what he claims to lay great stress is that by the County holding the stock could control the road, that is quite a mistake, because it advanced that argument in favor of retaining the stock, but the Board of Warden informed us that there were only seventeen directors, so that the seven directors of the County stock would give quite a controlling power at the Board.

And, as for the County regulating prices for which commodities will be carried over the road and so on, that, I consider, a far-fetched argument, for it will be just as much for the interest of the owners of the road, as it will be for the public to have fairs established at regular intervals, and stations erected where it is convenient; and, if they don't, the people will have the remedy in their own hands as the farthest station in the County is only fifteen miles from Belleville.

Trento, where our principal markets

The writer makes another gross mis-when he assumes that I thought it be cunning (a craft I make no pretense to) to sell the Conesty Stock, and I there state that I expected if the Stock offered intrale, the Conesty (Mr. Brown would buy it, as the Conesty had been Warden to believe as much some time And I told the old resident tries to let to deal with myself without his infor I have always endeavored while in Conesty Council to do what I conceive to be the best interest of the public, and believe I am safe in saying the Con-

-cussions will accord to me that other
Now with reference to the matter

Newspaper "Beats."

We suppose there must be, at the most, another calculation, between fifteen hundred and two thousand persons in this vicinity who get their newspaper reading for nothing (including the uncountable individuals who steal papers from other people's doors, or borrow from their neighbors, or look around where a newspaper is subscribed for, and paid for, and monopolize it to the exclusion of the right owner). We have had several subscribers stop their subscriptions, for no fault of our carriers, as they admitted, in order to become those papers after being delivered, were taken by some individual, or short of conscience as of cash, who would take possession of it. These newspapers, which ought to be well supported by a community for the general good it does to the town, in a measure—made to support the life and business of a town without the support which is requisite to enable it to keep up to a metropolitan standard of excellence. An individual should be able to read a paper habitually, which neither individual pays for. There are too many people who read papers which they do not pay for, and this is for their eyes especially with the purpose of searching their conscience, if they have any, and for the purpose of appealing to those who do subscribe and pay for newspapers, to keep their subscription to go on with their possession, in justice to themselves, as well as to the printer, whose capital and labor are invested in a business which serves to improve the commercial status of a city, in proportion to the enterprise its substantial patronage enables it to display. —Montreal Banner.

Review of the Pacific Neanderthal
Evidence, and the Mouth

Mr. Geo. W. McMillen published a letter which weaves some meagre documented evidence into a narrative that constitutes the gravamen of the Pacific lands. The present moment is, perhaps, not so improper one for considering the relevance of this ingenious combination of a few facts with a mass of unverifiable statements, under the light of Mr. McMillen's credibility.

In the first place it may be premised that Mr. McMillen's veracity in the Pacific Railway Scandal is open to entire to a reasonable question.

...the strongest reasons for doubting our assurances, and though subsequent assurances have confirmed these doubts yet at their request (his associates) detained from pushing matters against him (Sir Hugh Allan), further than "procure a settlement of personal out-

"and loss, and that of any friends

"his (Sir Hugh's) duplicity!" "The "demands," says Sir Hugh Allan

"Mulien, based partly upon alleged "pencitured by him, and partly "claims by him for compensation for "loss of time and service in the promo-
"of the enterprise, so long as he and "friends remained connected with "These demands were of such an extri-
"gastr character that I declined abso"lute to entertain them." The "duplici-
"of Sir Hugh Allan became, it is thus

And Mr. McMillen may not be subject to the influence of motives in reference to Sir Hugh Allas alone. He may be expected, fairly, of extending his recent conduct in the case, to the Ministers, in order to the more to damage Sir Hugh Allas, because, in the next place, of their disagency in his rejection. Indeed, his wish with the Government to be placed in error by Sir John Macdonald's testimony on that path, that "he (McMillen) came evidently for the purpose of attempting to 'me'—to force the Government, not Revenge places the narrative around the documents cited in McMillen's letter, under suspicion. His position on these documents is another consideration that places his statements under a question mark. The Hon. Mr. Abbott casts a doubt on Mr. McMillen's honesty when he testifies under oath: "I mean that nearly, if not all, the papers published in the 'Times' relating to this Pacific affair have been obtained by illegal if not criminal means."

“For instance, the four papers which were published at the end of Mr. McMillen’s second letter, must have been obtained by means which I think I may call criminal. Blanding, as Mr. McMillen does, under the shadow of this grave accusation, his statements cannot be received without caution. When this reflection upon his character comes to us in conjunction with the fact that he has been so long and so often put upon his evidence by his malice in other cases, we must receive the whole fabric of his Pacific slander with distrust.

Mr. McMillen alleges that ‘He, Sir Isaac Adams,’—that is, one time announced to be ‘Smith and myself that the $800,000,’ which he speaks in one letter had been lent to Sir John A. Macdonald and

"Francis Hincks, in sums of $4,000
"$4,500 respectively, with very "knowledge that it was never to be "paid." Sir Hugh Allan swears this statement that "no such transac"tion ever took place." Sir Francis swears reply to a question as the truth of statement: "I deny this is the most
"five terms. I received no sum of m-"whatever." Sir John Macdonald under oath, of this statement of McMu-
"It is utterly false, and I have rec-

"the first place," adds Sir John in his testimony, "If he ever did, it would
"been a falsehood; and in the next p-"when Mr. McMillan came to me and "the purpose of attempting to bully "and to levy blackmail upon me." At then, from even the suspicion attacking everything said in the Pacific Standard Mr. McMillen, we must hold him, in instance guilty, on the oath of three of the very first rank in the Dominion a deliberate falsehood.

Mr. McMillen states that, "In "tion to the payments spoken of,
"Abbott was authorized to promise
"Langevin $25,000 to aid elections
"Quebec, on condition of his friendly "assistance, and Mr. Abbott reported
"he had done so." Sir Hugh Allan,

"And Mr. Abbott reported, that he on his oath. "He never reported of Mr. McMullen, Mr. Laugvin said

"Mr. Abbott never promised or offered "anything; and therefore, in so far
"am concerned, the charge is false."
Abbott testifies on this statement
Mr. McMullen's, "I never reported ch-
